At 11 a. m. stocks opened one and two points higher than yesterday's closing quotations, following the lead of London. They then became weak on large sales for a short time. Afterwards they railied. On account of the failure of Decker, Howell & Co. there was a panic among holders of Villard stocks, and prices for North American and Northern Pacific collapsed.

The provisions for clearing house certificates, unlimited if need be, up to $95,000,000, will of course put to rout all these manipulation schemes.

A member of the clearing house committee, largely instrumental in bringing about this official action, said this evening: "This ends the money market trouble. Loan rates will be normal, now the pinch is over."
